

POSTAL SAVINGS URGENT KNOX; ASKS FOR $100,000

Introduces Bill in Senate to Establish System Throughout Country.

Senator Knox of Pennsylvania introduced in the Senate this morning a bill to establish a system of postal savings banks that promises to attract widespread notice. The subject is one to which the former Attorney General has given much attention. He is aligned with the President and the Postmaster General in believing thoroughly in the postal savings system.

Section 1 of the bill, which is a lengthy one, authorizes the Postmaster General to establish a system of postal savings banks and to designate as postal savings banks such money order postoffices as he may select for that purpose. Such postoffices shall be required to receive deposits from the public, dispose of them as the bill provides, and arrange for the repayment to depositors or their legal representatives of the deposits so made.

Details of Bill.

The bill goes into a number of details relating to the conduct of the postal savings system. It provides that accounts may be opened in any postal savings bank by any person ten years or older, in his own name, by a married woman in her own name, and free from any control or interference by her husband, by trustees for other persons, by a parent, guardian, or other person for the benefit of a child under ten years, or by any charitable or benevolent society.

No person or organization shall have more than one postal savings account except that a trustee, parent, guardian, or other person may have an individual account and an account in his representative capacity for each person or child for whom he may be entitled to open an account under the provisions of the proposed act.

Deposits are to be received in even dollars only, and may be delivered personally or forwarded by mail. One dollar is to be the minimum amount accepted. Interest is to be paid on deposits at the rate of 2 per cent per annum, computed quarterly.

Aids National Banks.

It is provided that the Postmaster General may, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, deposit postal savings funds in national banks, to be selected by the Postmaster General, the Comptroller of the Treasury and the Controller of the Currency, at a rate of interest satisfactory to the Postmaster General and the Secretary of the Treasury. Such deposits are to be made in national banks in the States and Territories in which the funds are received, and as far as possible in the counties and the immediate vicinity.

Postal savings funds are declared to be public moneys, subject to the safeguards and preferences prescribed by law. Adequate provisions are made for safeguarding depositors from loss, for reports, for prevention of embezzlement, and like improper handling of deposits, all statutes relating to improper handling of postal and money orders being made applicable to postal savings funds.

The bill carries an appropriation of $100,000 or as much thereof as may be needed to establish the postal savings system.

HOMESICK MISSISSIPPIAN DIES AS RELEASED

Discharge From Cavalry Received Day Before Fever Kills Man.

Grim tragedy has culminated the romance of Missian Harry Nelson, of the Eleventh Cavalry, and his wife and baby at Fort Dodge, Iowa. The two latter now are in sorrow on the eve of what promised to be one of the happiest days of their lives.

Nelson, a strikingly handsome fellow of twenty-five years, succumbed to the deadly yellow fever in the sun-scorched regions of Cuba after Senator Doolittle had interfered with Secretary Taft for the discharge of the musician in order that he might return to Iowa and support his wife and baby. Secretary Taft's heart was touched by the story told by Senator Doolittle, and although the War Department had refused to grant Nelson a discharge, he was ordered released from the oath by the head of the army.

The order for the discharge came too late, however, as Nelson, weak from fever and heart sick at the separation from his family, died the day after it was received in Cuba.

TAFT READY FOR WORK ON HIS RETURN TODAY

Secretary Taft, after another speech-making tour, will arrive in Washington tomorrow morning at 9:45 o'clock on the Federal express from Boston. He will immediately plunge into departmental work that has accumulated during his absence, probably going first to the Capitol for a conference with one of the committee.

The Secretary will devote his entire attention until the next trip to the routine of his office, among the things to be attended to being the appointment of the new major general to succeed General Greely, who retires next month, and the disposition of the Deems and Hancock cases, and other matters.

MRS. ANNA FISCHER DEAD; HOLD FUNERAL TOMORROW

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fischer, the widow of Frederick G. Fischer.

NAVY REFERRED BY SENATOR HALE; PRIME CHARGES

Speaker Declares American Force Is Next Best in World.

Senator Hale, chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee, addressed the Senate at some length this morning with reference to the Reuterbach charges of inferior battleship construction. He announced that it was the purpose of the committee to inquire thoroughly into the basis for these charges. Senator Hale secured the consent of the Senate for the printing of the Reuterbach article and the reports of Rear Admirals Capps and Converse in reply thereto as a Senate document.

Senator Hale gave further testimony to his confidence in the navy by referring to it as a magnificent navy, composed of as good ships as could be built by other powers anywhere in the world. He pointed out that the Reuterbach charges seemed to exhibit a remarkable familiarity with naval matters and naval construction as if facts had been furnished for them by naval officers.

He indicated plainly that the committee proposed to go to the bottom of the allegation that naval officers inspired the charges in question.

"I have faith," he said, "in the present state of the navy which have carried us successfully through three wars. I do not think these ships are perfect. Changes have been necessary from year to year. It would be the purpose of good management if improvements were not made from time to time. It is my opinion that these ships compare favorably with the vessels in any other navy."

Senator Hale gave further testimony to his confidence in the navy by referring to it as a magnificent navy, composed of as good ships as could be built by other powers anywhere in the world. He pointed out that the Reuterbach charges seemed to exhibit a remarkable familiarity with naval matters and naval construction as if facts had been furnished for them by naval officers.

Navy Constructors Capps Defends Ships Designers

Chief Constructor Capps, of the Navy Department, personally conveyed to the Naval Affairs Committee of the House the results of his report on the construction, which was prepared by direction of Secretary Metcalf.

The report, which was submitted to Secretary Metcalf Monday, was approved by him last yesterday, and the chief constructor was instructed to prepare a report on the construction of each house. Each committee will be requested to have the report published as a public document, in order that it may be available to all who are interested in the reply to the criticisms of Reuterbach and the Navy.

The report is longer than that of Rear Admiral Converse, which was made public Monday, covering over 100 typewritten pages. Secretary Metcalf was greatly impressed with the value of the technical information given in detail in the report, and that it may be available to all in the hands of every naval officer, as a matter of information.

The supply ship Arethusa, convey of the second torpedo flotilla, has at last overtaken the enemy which has been following her for the rest of the journey. The Arethusa fell behind at Pernambuco, and was forced to return to the engineer store room, and has since been pursuing the flotilla around the Cape of Good Hope.

The convoy will leave Takahuna with the flotilla within a few days for Callao, where the fleet at that time will be anchored.
